EXO_15 - The Quantum Theory of Stupidity :

According to the quantum theory of stupidity -1. stupidity has no limits, and

2. a) People, regardless of intelligence may be or are insecure or secure and bold, and even as this makes a difference concerning decisions, values, priorities, good or bad, right or wrong, wise or unwise, the stupidity or brilliance may or may not be self-evident;

b) various degrees and abilities to exercise self esteem, self image and ability to be assertive, autonomous and self actualizing on their own, making decisions for themselves for what they want, like, to have, to be, to experience, to achieve, believe in and dream about exists and may experience influencing factors or elements for or against them;

c) the influencing factors or elements may have censored, wiped out, neutralized, belittled, demeaned, discounted, ignored, ridiculed, stepped on, discouraged, frustrated, annihilated, suppressed, devalued, criticized, attacked, invalidated (I know, sounds like the war against straight white arrows) and so on, or correspondingly, liberated, encourage, optimized, amplified, promoted, valued, focused on, complimented about, enabled providence, defended, validated and so on ;

d) infractions, fraud, crime, genocide, selling out or not defending your country and treason are stupid things to do, even though the people doing them can be quite brilliant...at that...

3. Choice points to create an alternate time line with an alternate reality is always available with freedom of choice; By observation what appears as a limited reality results, so that it is difficult, impractical, maybe even impossible for someone to get out of their comfort zone of their reality, and do something that involves change, including making any type or level of decision, pro-active, reactive or otherwise, that could actually be a brilliant decision and action from a strategic, tactical, personal, professional or other point of view, and subsequently change the present experience and the course of events creating a new and better future and a better quality of life.

4. Any individual regardless of intelligence may have difficulties dealing with, responding to, compensating for, initiating counter-measures to or against, or doing anything pro-actively, to obliterate, eliminate or express those characteristics and actions that they themselves may suffer from detrimentally or negatively or limiting in any way, against those elements of stupidity, such as environment, products, services, situations, people, including those in government or politics or otherwise...

5. Individuals even with a little with kick ass DNA, render 1. & 2. obsolete and to little or no effect...phew, lucky for us eh...

6. Knowing better and doing nothing about it or doing nothing to change or eliminate what is stupid, is stupid, in fact irresponsible. So yes we have a lot of work to do, right?

Please note: altruism and integrity is essential in healthy vibrant personal and national industrial economic environments, turf can be terra-formed at any time, almost anything can become obsolete, and kick ass Canadians is a new phenomena generated by the quantum theory of "work hard play hard, invest and build", also from no more bullshit news propaganda, almost everything not made in Canada, no jobs, no money for the honey or anything else interesting, less emphasis on sports, video games, dumb ass dysfunctional TV shows, not smoking government gmo weed or taking destructive addictive drugs, less cell phones, wifi and microwave towers that fry the balls and brain cells and shred DNA, (the kick ass DNA)...!!!

Just knowing this will make you a lot smarter, it may save your kick ass Canadian attitude, you might even invest in, contribute to, custom build, develop, acquire or deploy something really cool and useful...This is a work in progress....
